ABSTRACT

Data were collected on the number of transfer students from six of Hawaii's community colleges (i.e., Honolulu, Kapiolani, Kauai, Leeward, Maui, and Windward) who earned degrees at the University of Hawaii at Manoa (UHM). The data, obtained from UHM's Admissions and Records Office and student enrollment reports, reveal that the number of graduates with community college backgrounds increased from 530 in 1974-75 to 936 in 1979-80. Of the 936 graduates with community college backgrounds, 40% had Arts and Science majors, 14% Business Administration majors, 14% Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources majors, and 14% Education majors. Among these 936 graduates, 73 earned advanced degrees, accounting for 6% of the total number of UHM graduates earning advanced degrees. The remaining 863 graduates comprised 30% of the total number of UHM graduates receiving baccalaureate and associate degrees and certificates. The UHM college which had the largest proportion of community college transfer students receiving advanced degrees was the College of Education, where 21 of the 73 advanced degrees were awarded. The bulk of the report is composed of data tables which present graduation figures by major for the community college transfers as a whole and for graduates by community college of origination. The data cover the years 1974-75 through 1979-80. An appended table presents information on University of Hawaii at Hilo graduates with community college backgrounds for 1979-80. (HB)

UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII AT MANOA (UHM) GRADUATES
WITH COMMUNITY COLLEGE BACKGROUND
ACADEMIC YEAR 1979-80

The performance of community college transfer students at the University of Hawaii at Manoa (UHM) continues to be of keen interest. This report is a brief summary of data on one aspect of the transfer students' accomplishments at UHM: number who earn Manoa degrees. Data on UHM graduates with Hawaii Community College background are excluded from this report. The information was obtained from the UHM Admissions and Records Office and Student Enrollment Reports 2540 and 2540C. (See Appendix A for a tabulation of graduates from Hilo College with community college background.)

The total number of UHM graduates with community college background increased from 530 in 1974-75 to 936 in 1979-80. This figure of 936 shows an increase of 7.5 percent from the previous academic year count of 871. The largest numerical and proportional increases between the last two academic years were for UHM graduates with Honolulu Community College background, which increased by 31 students, or 29 percent.

The UHM colleges with the largest numbers of graduates were Arts and Sciences (370, 40 percent), Business Administration (132, 14 percent), Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources (130, 14 percent), and Education (128, 14 percent). This shows a change from previous years, where graduates from the College of Education comprised the second largest group.

Among the 936 graduates in 1979-80, 73 earned advanced degrees, accounting for six percent of the total number of graduates earning advanced degrees. The remaining 863 graduates comprised 30 percent of the total number of UHM graduates receiving baccalaureate or associate degrees or certificates in the 1979-80 academic year. Comparable data for previous years are unavailable.

The UHM college with the largest proportion of graduates receiving advanced degrees was the College of Education, where 21 of the 73 advanced degrees (29 percent) were awarded. A total of 13 persons with community college background earned School of Medicine degrees, including seven MD degrees. The College of Arts and Sciences also awarded 13 advanced degrees, followed by the School of Social Work, with 12.
